PIGS IS PIGS

Adapted by Michelle Hoppe-Long | From the story by Ellis Parker Butler

When a package arrives at a rail station, an argument erupts about the contents inside. Are they pets or pigs? The station master and customer squabble over the rate to pay for purchase. "If animals come in singles or if they come in sets, if they've got four feet and they're alive, they'll be classified as pets!"

Themes: Pigs is Pigs focuses on listening, problem solving, and compromise.
